Hi,

I am interested in the role as a web developer or similar roles. I am applying for this role because it is related to and within my area of expertise.

In my previous role as a web developer, I successfully created several digital solutions. The solutions I created are used on the website Sattelite.eu. HTML, CSS, CRUD, JavaScript, and plugins were some of the technologies I used to create the solutions and debug. I have experience working with MySQL Workbench, SQL, and also Node.js through my education at the University of Borås. One of the tasks I received during my education was to create a database for a library. By first creating an ER diagram, normalizing it, and using SQL in MySQL Workbench and with MySQL Workbench I was able to create the database. I then tested the database, used various SQL queries, and performed CRUD operations. I know that your headquarters might be located in a different city or country, and I would like to add that I have the ability to relocate.

My goal is to constantly grow with the company and achieve positive results. Everyone around me would describe me as quick, a good team player, and solution-oriented. I am also confident that I have the skills, qualities, and collaboration abilities to succeed in this role as a developer with you. I place great importance on my development, enjoy taking on new projects, and constantly seek new responsibilities. I am applying for roles like web developer because it interest me and it has many opportunities.

I would be happy to call if you have any questions.

Best regards,
Benny Zhang
